The Teaching Transgender Toolkit: A Facilitator's Guide to Increasing Knowledge, Reducing Prejudice & Building Skills by Dr. Eli R. Green & Luca Maurer, MS, is a detailed collection of best practices, lesson plans, and resources for those who wish to facilitate trainings about transgender people, identities, and experiences.

The first of its kind, this book translates the authors' decades of experience leading transgender-related trainings and educational best practices into a guide that can be used by trainers of all levels to provide accurate and effective trainings. Whether you are a novice who has never led a training before, or you are an expert trainer or an expert on transgender identities, the Teaching Transgender Toolkit has something for you!

"Society is increasingly eager to learn about transgender people. And while thousands of trans folks and allies have made themselves available to do really great training, we need even more people doing this real teaching. All of us would benefit from a systematic, organized, thorough and thoughtful book like this."

– Mara Keisling, Executive Director, National Center for Transgender Equality

"The Teaching Transgender Toolkit is a first of its kind, much needed resource for any educator looking to help youth serving professionals, families, and communities be more trans sensitive and inclusive. These empathy building and skills-based tools are a great way to help your audiences support transgender communities better."

– Leslie M. Kantor, PhD, MPH, Vice President, Education
Planned Parenthood Federation of America
